CASE STUDY

Lead Generation B2B eSolutions

23% increase in revenue

THE COMPANY

QCS' client is a professional organization who is leading revenue cycle management business. The organization is dedicated to simplifying the business of health care by delivering health information, services and technology to hospitals, physicians and health systems. Sitting at the center of the health care financial exchange, the organization combines technology, methodology and expertise to help payers and providers collaborate. The seamless, transparent revenue cycle capabilities strengthen and sustain the payer and provider relationship.

THE CHALLENGE

The company had 2 challenges:

01

Transition new and existing customers to subscription-based software products

02

Outsource some of their team to execute the strategy

THE SOLUTION

Some of the critical components of our B2B Lead Generation program included:

- We knew we needed to form a team with individuals who were confident and had strong sales backgrounds. Because we partnered with multiple owner operations, our business model allowed us to hand-select the highest quality agents that fit our desired profile across various vendors.
- Given the number of solutions offered by our client, the QCS team segmented customers into lists based upon products purchased, market, and specialty. This segmentation provided a seamless way to generate opportunities for the relevant eSolution and help focus on additional upsell opportunities for each customer.
- The QCS team tested placement in the script and the language used to generate an eSolutions lead. We used data to analyze the results and made changes across all lists. As a result, we were able to bolster performance to improve the number of leads generated.

THE RESULTS

increase in revenue

10%

of new leads generated

3.5M

new eSolutions business

increase in electronic products in 3 years

Quality Contact Solutions has provided value from the very start!
They have delivered well-qualified leads for our sales team, consistently exceeded objectives, and have been our leading vendor to set the standards in raising the bar with our other partners.
